

Jennifer Shih, MD

Speaker Biography

Dr. Jennifer Shih is a board certified physician and Assistant Professor in the Department of Medicine and Department of Pediatrics at Emory University. She practices allergy, asthma, and immunology both at Children's Healthcare of Atlanta and adult Emory Clinics. She was the Medical Director of the pediatric allergy clinics until 2021 and the Associate Director of the adult asthma, allergy and immunology program. She is also past president of the Allergy, Asthma, and Immunology Society of Georgia. She established the Pediatric Allergy Telemedicine clinic in 2015. She has also served as Patient Satisfaction Director at CHOA and has given regular talks in the fellows ethics conference. She received her doctor of medicine from Louisiana State University Medical School in New Orleans as one of ten students accepted in the accelerated medical school program. She subsequently completed residency training and allergy/immunology fellowship training at Emory University. She has presented at multiple national meetings in her field with research interests including asthma, food allergy, transplant immunology, telemedicine, and primary immunodeficiencies. She has appeared on media outlets such as CNN, WebMD, and with Sanjay Gupta.

Dr. Shih has lived in Atlanta for several years with her husband, twin daughters and dog. She enjoys spending time with her family, traveling, and planning for her non-profit which assists solid organ transplant patients.